

News Notes From Springer Stockman

Every mechanic of every description in Springer is busy.

Darl Brown came down Thursday from Dawson.

Charles Colgrove was in the city Thursday from his home at Cimarron.

L. E. Alldredge was in Springer for a while this week from his home in Roy.

George W. Warder and family, visited Trinidad Sunday, returning home Monday.

Deputy Sheriff Jay Gale was in the city Wednesday from Raton on official business.

Miss Minnie Adams has been among the sick a portion of this week but is better again.

Arthur Sanders of Trinidad, was in Springer Thursday interviewing his customers.

D. A. Clouthier has been laid up a portion of this week with that dreadful ailment called rheumatism.

J. C. Codlin was in town yesterday. We are always glad to see him, for he is always, all the time, been all right.

Miss Hilda Floersheim of Roy, is spending the week in the city. She is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Wright.

Alberto Valdez and family were over from Ocate the first of the week for a short visit with their relatives, the Valdez families west of the city.

Frank Cowan spent a portion of last Sunday in Springer from Raton visiting with his relatives and friends all of whom are always pleased to see him.

J. Leahy, district attorney, was in the city Wednesday from Raton and representing the territory in the case of the Gonzales brothers and Lucario Moya.

Miss Celia Pascoe was in Springer a day or so this week from Wagon Mound. They have given up the hotel business there and will soon remove to Fort Collins, Colorado.

Still the homeseekers are coming in and land in the various tracts is being sold every day. The French Land & Irrigation Co. had an excursion arrive here Thursday.

A. A. Hopkins of Gila Dam, southwestern Arizona, came in last Saturday for a few days visit with his brother here, Dr. James Hopkins. Mr. Hopkins is in the copper mining business.

Farmers are rejoicing over an enormous second crop of alfalfa, which the most of them have finished cutting. Also the lower vega hay crop is exceptionally large, while the yield of straight prairie hay is only medium.

Rev. Fth. Antonio Cellier, pastor of the Catholic church in this city, went to Santa Fe Monday, where the priests of the territory went into annual retreat for a week in behalf of the church.

Mrs. S. B. Davis came in Friday of last week from her home in California on receiving word of the death of her brother-in-law, A. L. Harmon. She does not expect to return to California.

Chris Hansen has moved his family to the city from the ranch. Being one of the Palo Blanco Land & Irrigation Company members he will devote his time from now on to looking after the company's interests.

Attorney W. B. Bunker was in the city last Sunday from his home at Las Vegas. He was also here Wednesday again representing the Gonzales brothers and Lucario Moya at the preliminary examination in the justice court.

J. S. Holland of Holland, Union county, was in Springer Thursday and yesterday. Mr. Holland is an old-timer in this country, and as this is his first visit in Springer for a number of years his old friends and acquaintances were all very much pleased to see him again.

It is noised around that Max H. Karlsruher, well known in Springer where he lived a number of years, is soon to shake off bachelorhood and become a benedict, the other party to the important event in his life being an estimable young lady of Roy. The marriage, it is said, will take place at Roy early in November.

H. S. Wannamaker of Vermillion, Ohio, secretary of the Protective Colonization association, which is inter-denominational in character, was in the city Thursday. Last spring Mr. Wannamaker's association located 350 families on one tract of land forty miles south of Clayton, Union county, and they occupy almost four townships and are prosperous. These people have recently started a town which they call Amstad, where business men have located. They are preparing to build school houses and churches, and exhibit every evidence possible of enterprise and thrift. Mr. Wannamaker has been looking around this section with a view of securing a large body of land.

MUSINGS.

By J. Marvin Nicolson.

Picking a quarrel with a woman and fuddling with a hornet's nest are about one and the same.

John D. Rockefeller says that the beginning of his fortune came on that day when, as a boy hoeing corn at fifty cents a day, he made the discovery that $50 put out at 7 per cent a year would have an interest return equal to the amount of money he could earn in seven days at the rate of wage he was then receiving.

Avoid the break in friendship, for when it comes it cannot really be mended. The jarring not mends the harmony of the whole glorious symphony. It is not alone a question of forgiveness; that may be full and complete. It is the hurt in the heart that will not readily heal and the confidence that will not fully come back.

Risdale had evidently been over the road when he said that a woman wants to be told that she is handsome although she has a squint eye and a pug nose—and so it goes. However honest and truthful you may be, you will be despised unless you learn to keep your clapper tied.

After all there is nothing that really goes to the heart of another like the recognition of personal worth. Most of us can recall days when we walked with a lighter step because there had come to us the cordial recognition of another human soul. We do not always think what resources of encouragement and helpfulness lie in an honest word of recognition of another's work and purpose.

Kicking is a habit, and may be either natural or acquired. The habit of complaining, criticizing, fault-finding, or grumbling over trifles—a habit of looking for shadows is a most unfortunate thing to contract especially in early life. The victim is sure to become a slave. All the impulses will become perverted. The tendency to pessimism and cynicism will soon be chronic.

Doctor Hillis declares there are only two kinds of people in the world—the people who live in the shadow and the gloom and those who live on the sunny side of the street.

Martin tells of a young art student who had just finished a picture and, with tears in her eyes, had declared that it was another "awful failure." Just then the instructor, seeing what she had done, took a brush and palette and put a few strokes of light here and there; and lo! the "failure" was a thing of beauty. The young woman learned to put on the finishing touches to her own "failure" and they won the prize after all. Thousands of the great works of art, and many wonderful inventions, have been lost to the world on the very eve of accomplishment. Their authors became discouraged just at the critical moment that only needed the finishing touch. Perseverance is the "open sesame" to the door of success.

No one loves until he is blind to every fault.

No life can be real until all is love, laughter and toil.

Yearning, with no object in view, is bound to grow monotonous.

A manly apology is always noble. It can never be degrading.

History is crammed with careers that turned on the smallest incidents.

Some of us, after the treasure has vanished from our arms, sometimes see a stranger's darling just about the size of ours and would give our souls to hear her calling "Daddy!" in the night.

I have known men who have refused to stand by another in an unfortunate hour. They preferred waiting to see how the change turned out—true or false—on this changing tide of public opinion they are willing to rest their devotion. Repudiate him forever! The friend that forsakes in the evil hour is unworthy of your trust when life runs smoothly. It breaks a bond for which there is no welding they are frozen vipers warmed by your own heart-blood. They repay by the burial of their fangs in the heart that once blessed them you don't need a friend behind whose fawning smiles there slumbers the possibility of a forsaking. Stand by the suffering heart—be that suffering just or wrong. There is nothing that so clearly marks the really heroic.

Don't keep your kisses for the cold and pallid cheek. There is no feeling in the shadows of the tomb. It's too late.

A certain man came across his friend and asked:

"Can your wife keep a secret?"

"I don't know. She never tried," replied the wag.

The memory of "the good-night kiss" in the stormy years which may be in store for your little one will be like a far-off, steady star to guide them. "My father, my mother—loved me!" Lips all fever-parched will become dewy again when the tender memory rushes over them in after years. Kiss your child before he goes to sleep. The hour may come when you would give the world's gold just to touch those ruby lips once more.

Be brave! True the scorching rays fall hot on your already blistered face—but somewhere the cooling winds will softly fan your feverish brow. You'll sometime come to cloudless skies. Are your dear arms empty and your disappointed heart so dead and cold? Be strong! True the icy winds carry the frost and chill but somewhere there is a heart that will be true and he waits to pillow his head in the hollow of your shoulder. Sometime you will begin anew life's long sweet dream of love. Be brave and strong! True the ocean-winds have lashed the waves into the wildest fury—but as certain as the clouds ever came, they shall drift away and your barque will reach the open sea.

Uncle Josh wisely declares that a word to the wise is a hard thing to get in.

Dorothy Dix will get her mead of praise from many a man. She speaks for thousands when she says:

"Give me a flirt, give me a red-headed tartar, give me a bargain chaser, give me a woman who doesn't know whether an egg ought to boil two minutes or two hours, bring on your lecture platform ladies, or your Lucrezia Borgia's who are handy with the poison bottle, but, good Lord, deliver me from the woman who whines," says the man who is a real good industrious complainer.

"Yet, my wife is continually informing me that if she had not married me—if she had only remained single, instead of being the domestic slave that she now is, tied down to groveling pursuits by a home and family, she would be soaring aloft in the blue empyrean of fame."

"Put a whining woman in the Garden of Eden, and she'd have all the animals kicking and biting at each other in five minutes. Marry a complaining woman and she'll turn matrimony into a howling desert before you can say Jack Robinson; and that's the reason that I say that the whiner is the most aggravating thing in married life."

The eternal "kicker" is the one man that any community can well do without.

SCHOOL OF INSTRUCTION.

Topeka, Kan.—The Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe railroad, through the efforts of Vice President J. W. Kendrick and Superintendent of Motive Power A. Lovell, will establish in the local shops of the Santa Fe, commencing September 1, a system of instruction for the apprentices in the shops. Announcement to this effect was made this morning.

F. W. Thomas, who is at the present time engineer of tests, will be appointed to the position of supervisor of apprentices. In the local shops there will be five instructors taken from the experienced employees of the shops whose duties will be to look after the instructing of apprentices and see that they are thoroughly instructed in all the different classes of work. One instructor will be in charge of twenty-five apprentices.

There will also be a drawing school started which will be located in the old shop building. This building is located in the midst of the shop buildings and will be within easy reach of all the shops. The room which will be used for this drawing school is fifty by fifty feet and will be equipped with blackboards, drawing instruments, tables and the necessary requirements for instruction in drawing.
